

Longing to cruise around the world but not quite ready to leave the lake? Then this year's cruise week is for you!

Join the fun as we "cruise" to far and distant ports from July 5th to 14th. We'll use RSYC's own version of the Star Trek transporter to cruise the Mediterranean, the tropical South Pacific and the rest of the seven seas. Where do you fantasize cruising to? RSYC members at this year's Mid-winter Raft-up were eagerly calling out their fantasy homeports:

- Bill and Maureen Little are a wee bit excited about Ireland
- Wendy Friant yapped it up for the Micronesian Islands of Yap
- Steve and Christi Koch are keen on Kiwis from New Zealand
- Joel Harris and Marcia Haddad will provide some hummus among-us from Lebanon
- Jim Belino and Carol Ross will bring a slice of Sicily
- Will and Kathleen Patten will be the old man and ageless woman of the sea from Cuba
- Commodore Stephanie Wernhoff is underway in the North Sea headed for Germany or Norway.
- Cruise week co-captains Roger Wallace and Susan DeSimone have anchored under the protective cannons of Fort San Felipe de Barajas

Each boat on cruise week gets to choose a port and country of origin. Our goal is one boat per country such that we can travel far and wide- it's a big globe! Everyone on cruise week will receive their own passport and will hopefully visit as many other "countries" (boats) as possible and get their passports stamped to document their visit. The cruise week potluck will continue the theme as each boat brings a dish to share that is representative of their homeport.

Contact your cruise week co-captains; Susan DeSimone (sdesimon@middlebury.edu) or Roger Wallace (rwallace@gmavt.net) with your preferred homeport.

Join us for these and many more undisclosed fun activities during RSYC Cruise-Week 2013!
